SUSAN LUVERNIA ROBEY
ROSS

Susan Luvernia Robey Ross came to Utah in 1852 with her parents in the David Woods company, settling first in Provo.

She came to Provo Valley (Heber Valley) the same year her parents came, in 1859, but lived in Heber.

When her third child was born she was critically ill and died because of inexperienced medical assistance. The winter had been an exceptionally severe one, and at the time of her death, in April, the snow was so deep it took her father and brother nearly a whole day to reach Heber, a distance of about four miles. Her mother had been with her during her illness and had done everything in her power to save her life. She was an exceptionally sweet woman and was loved by all who knew her. She was always kind and cheerful, fond of singing, and her home was a gathering place of many young people.

After her death her mother took the three children and reared them to womanhood, caring for them as though they were her own. She died as many of the early pioneer saints, for the cause of humanity, and the building of a commonwealth from which future generations might dwell in peace and comfort. She is buried at Heber City, Utah.

Sarah Catharine Provost was the youngest daughter of Luke and Julia Ann Wheeler Provost. She was born May 28, 1854 at Newark, New Jersey. On July 8, 1896 she was married to James Ross. They were the parents of two children, James Isaac Ross who married Fannie Jane Young and Emma Ross, who died as a young girl. Sarah died March 17, 1919, at Vernal. 780
